Refund Policy

During the freeride camp:

In the purchased offer, we guaranteed the number of descents (in the form of the number of vertical meters) made during the trip. If the contract is not fulfilled due to our fault (groomer failure), we will refund the price difference in accordance with our individual training price list. If the number of meters has not been skied due to the client's fault (lack of fitness, poor downhill skills, stay in a guesthouse), there is no right to a refund.

During the ski touring camp:

In the purchased offer, we have written a specific ski tour program, but we must emphasize that the guide has the unquestionable right to change the tour route due to snow or weather conditions.

If the client decides to return to the guesthouse sooner or stay at the guesthouse on a given day, he or she is not entitled to a refund.

Risk

Our priority is safety. We operate in high mountains, where the highest snowfall is recorded in Turkey. Operating in such conditions always carries a risk that we cannot completely eliminate, but we reserve the right to change the program due to weather or snow conditions. Freeriding and ski touring are high-risk sports and can be life-threatening.

Every participant who signs up for a camp is aware of this risk and releases the organizer from any liability for loss of life or health.
